E-mail: fbanasik@tremcoinc.com

Over the past 22 years, Frank has managed many of Western New York's most sensitive and complex roofing projects. He has built his career by understanding that roofing is a high-risk decision for most of his clients. Frank considers these risks when he examines typical roof problems, recommends options, customizes specifications and monitors the project to its successful conclusion. Frank works within his customers' budgets to develop customized solutions for every facility.

Expert Qualifications

- 22 years roofing experience
- Designed solutions over extremely sensitive environments such as hospitals, manufacturing facilities and school systems
- Coordinated over 8 million square feet of roofing and weatherproofing projects ranging from maintenance repairs to full roof replacement
- Provided analytical services for all types of roof systems including metal, multiply, single ply and sprayed foam
- Presenter of AIA accredited continuing education seminars

Professional Affiliations

- Member of the American Institute of Architects (AIA)
- Member of the Building Owners & Managers Association (BOMA)
- Member of the Association for Facilities Engineering (AFE)

Projects

Some of Frank's notable high-risk, high-profile projects have included: hospitals like the Erie County Medical Center and assisted living facilities like the Erie County Home and Infirmary where patients, employees and daily visitors are very sensitive to odors; schools like Falconer High School and Buffalo City Schools where the roof work was completed while school was in session; and industrial clients like E.I. DuPont with "super-sensitive" chemical environments or General Motors with round-the-clock plant assembly operations.
